I. Collection Summary

Title	Howd / Mosher Family Collection
Collection No.	C165
Extent	.75 linear foot
Date Range	1818-c.1960 (bulk 1852-1917)
Abstract	This collection comprises correspondence, personal papers, and photographs created and preserved primarily by the Edwin Cook Howd family of Nunda, Livingston County, New York; the William Henry Mosher family of Nunda and Owosso, Shiawassee County, Michigan; and the Byron and Grace Anna Mosher Dawes family of Owosso, Michigan. The collection includes correspondence from relatives of Mary Warner Gear Howd from the New York City area, some business and estate papers, genealogical material, and Howd and Mosher family daguerreotypes, including one of William Henry Mosher while a gold miner in California. There is particularly good representation of Sarah Jane Howd McCartney in the form of three images of her, as well as some of her original poetry from Nunda and several love letters from Daniel D. T. Hadden of Mamaroneck, New York, in 1856.

II. Biographical and Background Information

Edwin Cook Howd (1803-1881) was married in 1824 to Mary Warner Gear (1806-1871), and their children were Sarah Jane “Jennie” or S. Jennie Howd McCartney (1826-1897), Mary Elizabeth Howd (1828-1837), Frances Caroline Howd (1841-1855) and Anna Eliza Howd Mosher (1846-1910). The Howds spent most of their lives in Nunda and are buried there at Oakwood Cemetery.

Anna was married to William Henry Mosher (1832-1885) in about 1862 and the couple moved to Owosso, Shiawassee County, Michigan, settling permanently by about 1866. Their surviving children were Alexander H. Mosher (1868-1944), Grace Anna Mosher Dawes (1870-1960), and Edwin William Mosher.

Grace was married to Byron Martin Dawes in 1890 and she was primarily responsible for preserving the materials in this collection in what the family called “Aunt Grace’s Trunk.”

Diane Mosher Collier donated the materials in this collection as part of a larger bundled purchase by the Livingston County Historical Society and Museum in November 2018. The ephemera and most of the photographs were donated to the County Historian’s Office, while the Museum kept several textile items and objects. These included a coverlet woven in Mt. Morris in 1838, needlework samplers by Frances Caroline Howd, and a few assorted daguerreotypes and letters.

III. Arrangement and Access Notes

The materials in this collection arrived in bundles which, when unfolded, did not appear to have distinct organization; they were therefore sorted generally by recipient and placed chronologically in folders. The daguerreotypes and convex photographs were stored in a small cardboard box or were loose when acquired, and were rehoused into acid- and lignin-free archival boxes and/or tissue. All print photographs, daguerreotypes, and convex photographs were scanned and are available in digital form from the County Historian. Those related items retained by the Livingston County Historical Society and Museum were either photocopied for inclusion in the collection or digitized and shared with the County Historian’s Office.
